FIELD TRAINING STAFF NOTICE #7-57

SUBJECT: [REDACTED] Security

1. The [REDACTED] is one of the vulnerable security points through the [REDACTED]. The constant flow of TDY visitors and new students without a check on their identity provides an excellent opportunity for the penetration of this [REDACTED]. It is impossible for any one person to know and recognize all the other people using the [REDACTED]. It is the responsibility of all persons, both Staff and students, to be aware of the identity of all the people they talk to in the [REDACTED].

2. In addition, the Training Duty Officer is specifically charged with the responsibility of checking the identification of persons in the [REDACTED] who are unknown to him. Unknown persons accompanied by known staff or student personnel may be considered secure in view of the individual responsibilities of identification outlined in paragraph 1 above. Unknown persons not accompanied by known staff or student personnel should be investigated. This investigation may be conducted by asking other known staff or student personnel if they can identify the persons in question, or by approaching the unknown persons directly and requesting to see their badges. Persons unable to identify themselves will be detained and the Training [REDACTED] Security Officers notified immediately.

3. The "Skit Nights" sponsored by the various courses represent a security risk and offer an excellent opportunity for penetration. The Chief Instructor of a course sponsoring a "Skit Night" will be responsible for providing maximum security in the [REDACTED]. To accomplish this, a check on the badges of all personnel entering the [REDACTED] on "Skit Nights" will be a required procedure.

4. This memorandum will be brought to the attention of all personnel, both staff and students, and will be included in the initial briefing of all newly arrived personnel of both categories.
